MR. HARVILL MARRIES

Miss Della Doss Sunday Morning at Hopkinsville--Will Go to Housekeeping.

Mr. A. M. Harvill, manager of the Cumberland Telephone office of this city, stole a march on his friends when he left here Friday for Cerulean Springs to make arrangements to marry Miss Della Doss, of that place. Their wedding took place in Hopkinsville Sunday morning in the presence of relatives and a few friends. Mr. Harvill is one of the best men who has ever been in the Cumberland service in this city, and has a host of friends who congratulate him on his successful visit last week. Mrs. Harvill is an excellent young woman and most popular in her home town. They are staying at the St. George Hotel and will go to housekeeping soon.

Mattingly--Dorst.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Mrs. Tula Mattingly to Mr. W. T. Dorst, which will take place in St. Rose Catholic church next Tuesday. The ceremony will be said by Father Celestine Brey. Mrs. Mattingly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Lewis and a sister of Miss Florence Lewis. Mr. Dorst is a well-known and highly thought of man of the Henderson County. They will go to housekeeping in his nice home on Second and Hudson streets in Breckenridge Addition.

Buys A Farm.

Rev. G. S. King, a former minister of Cloverport, has resigned from the Louisville Conference, says the Elizabethtown News, and has bought a farm near Elizabethtown on which he and his family will live. Rev. King has been in bad health for sometime and thinks farm life will be better for him for a while, at least.

Will Re-Build.

Mr. C. M. Bullitt, of Louisville, spent Thursday night in town in conference with Mr. George Bentley, manager of the Hawesville Elevator Co., relative to the re-building of the bins of the company, which collapsed two weeks ago under the great weight of 15,000 bushels of wheat. The wreckage is now entirely cleared away, and it was determined to re-build at once. Work on the new structure was practically begun yesterday. --Hancock Clarion.

Making Good In The Sunny South

The News received a copy of The Daily Pleasure, of New Orleans, containing a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carson. He is well known here and his home people are glad to learn that he is favored by his southern friends.

Dr. Heavrin Very Sick.

Dr. J. H. Heavrin, one of the most prominent physicians of the county, lies critically ill at his home in this city of heart trouble, brought on by hay fever, from which he has suffered for years.

Drs. Rodman and Stirmann of Owensboro, and Cosby, of Havasville, are attending on Dr. Heavrin, but give out little hope of his recovery. Dr. Heavrin is a much-beloved citizen, and his host of friends everywhere hope for his recovery. --Hancock Clarion.

Birds Plentiful.

Sam Keith says from his observation there will be a large crop of birds for the hunting season which opens the fifteenth of November. This is good news for the sportsmen for they had little promise early in the summer on account of the frequent rains. However, the quail have successfully raised their broods and Sam Conrad, Dr. Lightfoot and Henry May will have plenty of birds to shoot.

Getting Facts For

Kentucky History.

E. F. Graves has been in Cloverport getting facts for the History of Kentucky and Kentuckians which is being written by Col. E. Polk Johnson, of Louisville. Among those chosen for honorable mention in the volume are W. H. Bowmer, Chas. Hamman, Frank Fraize, A. B. Skillman and A. R. Fish.

BAPTIST REVIVAL

Opens With Intense Interest--Rev.

Jones, The State Evangelist, Has Arrived.

Monday and Tuesday evenings the Baptist church was filled with an interested audience to hear the Baptist State evangelist, the Rev. Mr. Jones. The new minister made a favorable impression and is certain to live up to the churches and their workers before he will have left the city.

In speaking to Mr. Jones about his first impression of Cloverport, he said he hardly knew what to say, but he is the kind of fellow that looks happy all ways whether he is pleased or not. The only way to tell about him is to go hear him preach every afternoon, and night during the next week.

League Officers Installed.

Sunday night at the Methodist church the new officers of the Epworth League were installed for the coming year. They are: President, Miss Margaret Burns; Vice President, Miss A. Louise Babbage; Second Vice President, Miss Jeanette Burn; Secretary, Miss Eloise Nolte; Treasurer, Marion Denton.

Rev. Dillon's friends are very sorry over his ill health, and hope his stay in Russellville will benefit him.

Work On The Death Chair

The Frankfort correspondent of the Courier-Journal writes his paper as follows:

"Although it is expected that the chair may not be used for many months, some interesting stories of their careers. Why Dr. Owen became a doctor; how Mr. Skillman commenced banking, and this and that were talked over and discussed, while Mr. Graves gathered the real facts necessary for the history of Kentucky that is being written by Col. E. Polk Johnson. No man in Breckenridge has had a life so crowded with stranger experiences, happier days and more successful business undertakings than our friend, Mr. Frank Fraize, who says he is twenty years less than a hundred--in truth he is younger than eighty in both years and spirit. Mr. Fraize came to Cloverport in 1888 from Hardinsburg. At the age of twenty years he rode horseback to the capital of Breckenridge from Elizabethtown. It was in the early spring--some time in March when the winds were brisk and snappy--that he started to a new field determined to find his fortune. He wore a new suit and a silk hat. Around his shoulders was pinned a blue blanket--for overcoats were as scarce everywhere as dress suits are now in Cloverport. Several friends left Elizabethtown with him, but Mr. Fraize's old nag was so hard and slow that they soon got far ahead of him. About half way on his journey he was compelled to stop and rest on a log. When his mounted horse again, off fell the silk hat and the horse crashed it into a thicket and wrinkles. One can imagine his anguish! However, he rode on with ambition in his heart and $10 in his pocket, the latter he borrowed to make his start in the world of finance at the county seat."

He registered at the Brick Hotel, and the first night there, just as he stepped into the dining room, he fell and nearly bit his tongue into. He recovered from that as bravely as he did the silk hat accident and ventured on again. The people at the hotel must have liked the stranger and were pleased with him at first sight, for after supper they invited him to play with the guests in the bowling alley. He entered into it with vim and enthusiasm, and picked up the largest, heaviest ball. When he let it go, it down on the floor he himself dropped too! That was the worst, the most embarrassing blow of all!

He seemed doomed--falls just one after another--that's all he got after that. He struck a feather bed--a fellow always will, no matter how many times he falls or fails, if he is on the right road--and he had a restful night. The next day he opened a tailoring shop, for he was a tailor by trade, and did well. Then he drifted into politics and was sheriff for this county nine years. Today Mr. Fraize is one of the leading merchants of Breckenridge. To walk through his store and visit in his home one would not think he started on a borrowed capital of $10.

STORIES WRITTEN

While The Press Thunders

BY LOUISE

Mr. Graves' coming to Cloverport to seek information about the representative men of this place, stirred up some interesting stories of their careers. Why Dr. Owen became a doctor; how Mr. Skillman commenced banking, and this and that were talked over and discussed, while Mr. Graves gathered the real facts necessary for the history of Kentucky that is being written by Col. ## Gratefulness.

It isn't the thinking how grateful we are.

For the kindness of friends come to bless

Our sorrow or loss

'Neath the weight of the cross--

It is telling our gratefulness.

It isn't the love that they have in their hearts

And neglect or forget to reveal,

That brightens the lives

Of husbands and wives--

It is telling the love that they feel.

It isn't the thinking of good to mankind

That comes as a cooling drink

To the famished ones

Of earth's daughters and sons--

It is telling the good that we think.

It isn't the music asleep in the strings

Of the lute that entrances the ear,

And brings to the breast

The spirit of rest--

It is only the music we hear.

It isn't the lilies we hide from the world,

Nor the roses we keep as our own,

That are strewn at our feet

By the angels we meet

On our way to the great White Throne.

It isn't the silence of hope unexpressed

That heartens and strengthens the weak

To triumph through strife

For the good things of life--

It is the words of good cheer that we speak.

—William J. Lampton.

Governmental Regula-

tion Of Profits.

(From Manufacturers Record.)

Throughout the country, due in large part to agitation by men who know little about what they talk, and in part by straightforward demagogues who know better, there is a rampant cry against success. Everywhere it is being suggested that capital invested in railroads should be limited to 5 or 6 per cent, profit and there is likewise a tendency to denounce larger profits made in business ventures.

If the earnings of capital invested in development enterprises, such as railroads are by the Government to be limited to 5 or 6 per cent, the converse ought to be true, that the Government should guarantee earnings of 5 or 6 per cent. The people of the country who are demanding the limitation of earnings must be willing to guarantee that the earnings shall at least reach the figure upon which the limitation is set, otherwise there can be no broad expansion.

Nothing can be more absurd than to imagine that the great capitalists of this or any other country are going to invest money in semi-speculative enterprises, such as the building of railroads or the establishment of new industries, unless there is a connection with the risk of the loss of capital an opportunity for the possibility of large earnings. If nothing is to be gained beyond an income at which money can be safely loaned, nothing will be ventured in development work, and American progress will halt. The resources of Canada, of Mexico and of some of the imperial regions of natural wealth in South America will leap into active development in proportion to a halving of the development in our country.

Limitless as may be our natural resources, we do not control the world. There are other lands in which coal and iron and water-powers and agricultural capabilities are found; other lands where the work of the developer is appreciated, where capital is welcomed, where large earnings are not made the cause of destructive legislation; other lands already doing great things, and ready and eager to compete with the United States in industrial and railroad development.

We are to set a valuation on the physical properties of railroads in order to limit their earnings; is the unsound theory that great business enterprises must be so dominated by law that they shall not get the benefit of the unearned increment in the territory which they build up and the good will which is a part of every successful institution that this does not in any way mean that they shall not be regulated by law as to doing things legally and in accordance with the highest ethics, then we should by law regulate the value of real estate, city and suburban, the value of newspaper properties and the value of good-will in every business. There is no important newspaper in the land whose physical property is any basis whatever on which to measure what its earnings shall be. Good-will, established business and the growth of a city in which a daily paper is published, or the growth of the industry to which a technical paper may be devoted, are factors in the value of newspapers just as much as the growth of a country is a factor in the value of a railroad, and not the cost of its replacement.

The increasing value of land necessarily adds to the cost of foodstuffs. If there had been no advance in the value of farm land by reason of the growth of the country, millions of people now crowded in the cities would be able to purchase farm property and make a living for themselves and help to lessen the cost of foodstuffs to those left in the cities. Why, then, should men be permitted to ask a higher value for farmlands or for city property? Why not by law put a valuation on all agricultural land, never permitting it to increase, and limiting the earnings to 5 or 6 per cent, and then force the farmers to

BASE BALL

IN TWO STATES.

Tobinsport Defeats Derby Sunday and Hardinsburg Goes to Lewisport and Engages in a Slamfest.

The Derby, Ind., base ball team came down Sunday and engaged the "Pumpkin Rollers" on their own lot at Tobinsport, and with the almost usual result of defeat on those grounds, though not on account of the good playing of the Tobinsport team. Scores, Tobinsport 10, Derby 9.

The Hardinsburg ball team went to Lewisport Saturday and played a game on that day and one on Sunday. Although Lewisport has always had a strong team, Hardinsburg defeated them on Saturday by the score of 10 to 0, and in the second game by the score of 4 to 0.

The feature of the second game was the phenomenal stop of a ground ball made by Alvin Bowman of the Hardinsburg team. Batteries for Hardinsburg--First game, Schlamm and Dittor; second game, Applegate and Dillon.

continue to cultivate the soil so thoroughly as to secure the largest possible yields, and give to the millions of consumers now suffering because of high prices of foodstuffs the benefit of lower prices? Surely more consumers would be benefited by the cutting of farm product prices in half than will be benefited by the efforts to minimize the earnings of great development and building operations. Why should any increase in the value of timber land, or coal lands, or iron lands be permitted? This increase only adds to the cost of building homes and of establishing industries. Why not say that as timber property sold at $2 or $3 an acre a few years ago, it shall not sell at a higher value now, and that lumber must be sold on the basis of a valuation of $2 or $3 an acre and not the basis of present valuation of timber lands?

It may be said that these are visionary suggestions. We grant that to a certain extent they are not more visionary than the arguments of many public men, many newspapers and many of all classes on the problems of the day. Just so surely as the sun rises and sets will the agitation which is now spreading over the land, based largely on hysterics, unless the country returns to sanity of thought, eventually find expression in antagonism to all profits beyond the narrowest margin, to all advance in property values, whether of city or country, farm or timber lands; to all profits in banking or other business interests over and above the narrowest limit, and thus the reign of the cranks, the theorists, the faddists will supplant the reign of law and order. Industrial stagnation will then take the place of industrial development, and this country, hitherto the leader of the world's material advancement, will be surpassed in progress in material things and thus in progress in civilization, by other countries which we now affect to despise.

We would, indeed, be fools to shut our eyes to the facts. No one need deceive himself that we are not heading that way. We have faith enough, however, in the American people to believe that they will recognize the situation and meet it by a return to sanity.

Miss Elizabeth Skillman Goes To Belmont College. Miss Elizabeth Young Skillman, of Montgomery, has gone to Belmont College at Nashville, Tenn. She was accompanied by her father, Chas. B. Skillman. Last year Miss Skillman was a junior of the Cloverport High School and was one of the brightest and most popular members of her class. She is a grand daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ab Skillman and Cloverport is her native home.

English Singing Birds

Little More American Literature In brief and books, I know a good deal about English literature as it appears in books. I know the link of Shakespeare;
I know the highlights of Milton and Keats; I know Wordsworth's cuckoo; I know mavis and mistleleaves in the merry green woods, and Cock Robin of the nursery book.
To hear him always kindly distillated to breathe the birds in real life, and the opportunity offered him long ago, very exacting round of pleasure and duties. It was necessary for me to be with some companion who could feel

It was not a loud song, but very musical and attractive, and the bird sang through the song of the cuckoo. The song of the cuckoo was more or less what we were the least like that of our house wren or whit, on the contrary, like that of our winter wren. There seems to be a great deal about the "try, try again" motto and as that of the tiny singer of the north woods. The sedge warbler venturing in the black weeds a mockingbird venturing in the yellow pronounced parts of the yellow breasted grass note. The yellow cuckoo's war was singularly attractive and musical, far more so than that of the yellow breasted grass note.

Edward Grey, a keen lover of outdoor life in all its phases, and a delightful companion, who knows the songs and ways of English birds as very few do know them, I found the best possible guide.

We left London on the morning of June 9, 24 hours before I sailed from Southampton. Getting off the train at Basingstoke, we drove to the pretty,

But in quality, as an isolated bit of melody, it can hardly be surpassed.

Among the many singers of the robin was the "We've Come to Know" this pretty little bird from the books, and was prepared to find him as friendly and attractive as he proved to be, and I did not realize how well he sang.

southern rivers and western plains she knows rushing winds and running waters and the great wide open spaces; to know places; and moreover, she knows and almost tells those things of the heart which never find complete utterance.

No Cause for Alarm.

"I have decided," said the theatrical manager, "that you shall wear tight clothing. Please be ready to begin rehearsing Monday afternoon."

"Thank you so much. But before I go any further I must inform you that I shall positively refuse to wear tight or a gown that is cut low in the neck."

"Oh, that's all right. In the past that I'm going to give you, the people are going to see behind a screen and help to scream when the geyser strikes them."

Present, Hon. L. L. Waggoner, Judge and the following magistrates, G. A. Wright, G. N. Harris, Sam Dix, Jno. N. Akers, Sam Slaughter, B. A. Whittinghill.

Moved by Squire Akers, seconded by Squire Wright, that the court appoint the county supervisor and three other magistrates to look into the bridges on the Cloverport and Holt road. Motion carried.

The court appointed Squires Dix, Harris and Akers in conjunction with the county surveyor and county supervisor, to look over the road Tuesday, August 9, 1910, and report back here Saturday, August 13, 1910.

On motion of J. N. Akers, seconded by B. A. Whittinghill, and a unanimous vote of the court, it is now ordered that the consent of the Fiscal Court of Breckenridge county, Ky., be, and same is hereby given that elections may be held in the following subdivisions of Breckenridge county, aforesaid, to determine the sense of the voters as to whether or not stock or any species thereof shall run at large, as provided in Section No. 373 Russell's Statutes of 1909, and said civil divisions are as follows, viz: Stephensport Magisterial district, Hardinsburg Magisterial district, Glendene and McDaniels voting precincts and any other subdivisions of Breckenridge county in which an election may be lawfully and regularly held as provided by law, said election to be held at the regular November 1910, election, and said elections shall be confined to said Magisterial districts and precincts referred to, and shall not be to take the sense of the voters of the entire county.

Motion of Squire Akers that no claims be allowed at called terms of court. Motion carried. Minutes approved as read. Court adjourned to meet Saturday, August 13, 1910.

At a court continued or not stock or any species thereof shall run at large, as provided in Section No. 373 Russell's Statutes of 1909, and said civil divisions are as follows, viz: Stephensport Magisterial district, Hardinsburg Magisterial district, Glendene and McDaniels voting precincts and any other subdivisions of Breckenridge county in which an election may be lawfully and regularly held as provided by law, said election to be held at the regular November 1910, election, and said elections shall be confined to said Magisterial districts and precincts referred to, and shall not be to take the sense of the voters of the entire county.

Came committee and filed the following report on bridges to-wit: In Re. County Bridges of Breckenridge county, Ky.

Report of Bridge Committee.
Whereas, the undersigned were appointed a committee to examine into the condition of the county bridges along the Ohio river at the last term of this court, and to make a report of the condition of same, we respectfully report as follows:

We examined the Town Creek bridge and found same down, and that a new bridge and abutment both will have to be build. We found exactly the same condition at the Gohagan bridge. We carefully examined the abutment of the Cloverport Iron bridge and find same in an apparently dangerous condition. However, the condition is such that we are unable to intelligently advise the proper or best means to take further than to request and urge the court to appoint a competent engineer to go at once and look into the condition of the bridge and make complete report to this court which will then take immediate action.

As the other bridges, we recommended that no contract be let or other action taken until the said engineer examine them and the Cloverport bridge and has made his report, and the supervisor of roads has made his report as to probable cost of widening roads, etc. All of which is respectfully reported.

John Akers, member of Fiscal Court, Sam H. Dix, member Fiscal Court, Geo. N. Harris, member Fiscal Court. On motion of S. H. Dix, seconded by J. N. Akers, it is ordered that the recommendation of the committee heretofore appointed be adopted, and that the County Judge and road supervisor communicate at once with some capable civil engineer and employ him on the best terms possible, to come at once to Cloverport and make a complete and careful examination of the conditions of the Cloverport iron bridge abutments and recommendation as to the proper and best means of rendering said bridge safe, and so soon as said examination is made, report will be prepared by said engineer and filed with the said supervisor and judge, and the judge of this court will immediately call this court together for such steps as may appear proper in the premises.

Moved by G. N. Harris that the court proceed to let contract for erection of Town Creek and Gohagan bridge which motion was seconded by Samuel Slaughter, and yea and nay vote being taken resulted as follows, to-wit: J. N. Akers, nay; G. A. Wright, nay; S. H. Dix, nay; G. N. Harris, yea; Samuel Slaughter, yea; B. A. Whittinghill, nay.

And the motion was lost four two.

Moved by S. H. Dix, and seconded by J. N. Akers, that the civil engineer appointed to examine the Cloverport bridge also examine these two bridges, and that any action by this court be deferred until he makes his report and further that the road supervisor make complete report showing complete costs of changes suggested in the Cloverport road on which said bridges are located and that he make any suggestions he may deem proper in the premises, which motion was unanimously adopted as the order of this court.

It appearing that the note executed by the commissioners to build the poor house in 1905, has not been paid, and is just due, and that demand has been thereon and it appearing that commissioner and receiver did not report said indebtedness in settlement of 1909, and the same was not reported to this court, and it further appearing that said claim is just and otherwise regular, it is now ordered that the commissioner and receiver of Breckenridge county execute the obligation of said court for said sum of $1,000, and said claim be countersigned by the judge of Breckenridge county, said notes to be in full number of equal amounts, due in one, two, three, four and five years after date, bearing interest at the lowest rate, said commissioner can secure, not to exceed 6 per cent. interest, payable annually from date until paid, and the said note will be paid by said commissioners and his being reported at the next term of this court.

Moved and seconded that minutes be adopted as read.
J. N. Akers, 2 days attendance, 60 cts.
G. N. Harris, 2 days attendance, 60 cts.
G. A. Wright, 2 days attendance, 60 cts.
B. A. Whittinghill, 2 days attendance, 60 cts.
Samuel Slaughter, 2 days attendance, 60 cts.

S. H. Dix, 2 days attendance, 60 cts.
At a County Fiscal Court called and held in and for Breckenridge county at the Court House in Hardinsburg, Ky., on Saturday, August 20, 1910, members present, Hon. L. L. Waggoner, Judge, with the following magistrates, Sam Dix, Geo. Harris, Sam Slaughter, Jno. Akers, B. A. Whittinghill and G. A. Wright.

The report of the civil engineer employed by Squire Waggoner and Bridge Commissioner Mike Miller, who had been appointed to employ some one to do this work, was produced to court, read and the committee discharged.

Motion by Squire B. A. Whittinghill, seconded by Squire Geo. Harris, that there be a bridge built over Town Creek and one over Gohagan Creek, which motion carried.

Moved by Squire Jno. Akers, seconded by Squire Sam Slaughter, that the commissioners receive seal bids for the building of said bridges, and said bids be brought to this court for exception or rejection, reserving the right to reject any and all bids if they see fit.

Julius Dutschke and Amiel Oelze are appointed commissioners to assist the Bridge Commissioner, Mike Miller, in the construction of said bridges.

Motion by Squire Sam Dix, seconded by Squire Jno. Akers, that the County Attorney be appointed to confer with the city council at Cloverport that they are going to repair the iron bridge at Cloverport, and under the law they will be expected to pay their prorata of said expense.

Moved by Sam Slaughter, seconded by Squire Sam Dix, that the said commissioners receive bids for building abutment to the Cloverport iron bridge of stone, concrete or any other material and that said bids be brought to this court reserving the right to reject any and all bids.

Minutes read and approved as read. Ordered all magistrates be allowed $1 per day.

Ordered that court adjourn.

At a Fiscal Court called and held in and for Breckenridge county, Ky., on Monday, September 12, 1910, at the Court House in Hardinsburg, Ky., members present: Hon. L. L. Waggoner, Judge of Breckenridge county, Ky., with the following Justices: S. H. Dix, Sam Slaughter, Geo. N. Harris, B. A. Whittinghill and Jno. N. Akers.

For the purpose of considering the building and repairing of bridges in this county, and any other business that may come before the court.

At a former term of this court it being decided that bridges should be built across Gohagan and Town creek, Justice Harris, seconded by Justice Jno. N. Akers, moved that iron bridges be built across these two creeks. The vote being taken, it was voted that iron bridges be erected across these two creeks and it is so ordered.

On motion of Justice Geo. Harris, seconded by Justice Sam Slaughter, it was ordered that the build the Vincennes Bridge Co., as submitted to the commissioners heretofore appointed to receive bids, be accepted. It is further ordered that said commissioners shall enter into a contract with said Vincennes Bridge Co. for the erection of two iron bridges, one across Town creek and one across Gohagan creek, and said commissioners, to-wit: H. A. Dutschke and Amiel Oelze, are hereby authorized to use all power for the construction of said bridges, and they will accept or reject said bridges after they are built, and will report their action to this court.

It is further ordered that said Vincennes Bridge Co. be required to execute bond to be approved by this court, for the faithful performance of its contract.

L. L. Waggoner and Mike Miller's commissioners heretofore appointed to contract for the erection of a bridge across Bull creek, having contracted for the erection of same, and same having been completed, and the commissioners having reported the acceptance of said bridge as having been built according to the requirements of said contract, the action of said commissioners is now confirmed and ratified, and the bridge commissioner, Mike Miller, is directed to issue a warrant for the payment of the contract price of said bridge directed to the sheriff, but he will not issue said warrant until all bills for labor performed and material furnished for said bridge have been paid for and settled in full.

Claude Mercer having brought suit against Breckenridge county for damages for breach of contract for indexing the deeds of Breckenridge county, the county attorney, Jessa R. Eskridge, is hereby authorized to employ special counsel if he thinks advisable, to defend said action, and he is authorized to take such action in the premises as he deems necessary to protect the interest of the county.

On motion of Justice Sam Dix, seconded by Justice B. A. Whittinghill, it was ordered by the court that the commissioners, H. A. Oelze, Julius Dutschke and Mike Miller, appointed to contract for the erection of the bridges across Gohagan creek and Town creek, be authorized and empowered, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to let a contract for the repair of the western abutment of the bridge across Clover creek at Cloverport, Ky., and they will use their best discretion and judgment as to the kind of repairs necessary to be made, it being understood that the county waives none of its legal rights as to the liability of the City of Cloverport for its proportional part of the amount necessary for said repairs.

Minutes read and approved in open court. Ordered that court adjourn.

THE BURLEY TOBACCO POOL FOR 1910.

D. C. Heron, chairman of the Burley Tobacco Society for this county, is in Lexington this week attending the District Board meeting. This meeting will fix a time for taking a vote on the question of declaring the 1910 pool on or off. This question is a vital one to the tobacco growers of this State and county. On its action depends the price the growers will get for their tobacco, not only for this year but for many years to come. If the farmers, after their successful fight for living prices in 1908, are able this year to stand together and pool an amount of the 1910 crop sufficient to tie up to any extent the source of the trusts supply, their battle would be won. As the Lexington Herald very truthfully says:

"It is hard to understand the mental attitude of the man, who, having a piece of property, on the selling price of which the welfare of himself and his wife and children depends, and the opportunity to fix the price he shall receive for that property, deliberately chooses to allow the purchaser to fix the price instead of himself. There is no room for argument on the proposition that if the farmers stand together the trust may pay their price. That is an absolutely accurate statement of a self-evident fact. And the farmer who refuses to join the pool this year, for one reason or another, is putting himself in the position of being able to fix a price on his product himself and preferring to allow some one else to fix the price for him. He has an undoubted legal right to do that if he so desires, regardless of the fact that by so doing he prevents others, who are willing to protect themselves, from fixing a price on their crops."

Breckenridge county is not a large producer of Burley, but what is produced here has its effect on the price just the same, whether in the pool or out of it. As long as the trust can get tobacco outside of the pool just that long will they refuse to buy pool tobacco. So every pound lost to us in this county works against the pool and enables the trust to supply their needs. While the pooling plan is a slow process and works a hardship on many farmers who need ready money, it is, we candidly believe, the only thing that will help the farmer in the end.

Hon. Ben Johnson, candidate for re-election to Congress from this district, made a great speech to the Democrats at Oelze's Hall Monday night. Mr. Johnson touched on the tariff, as it now exists and how the Government was robbing the poor man through that unjust system. He said that on every $15 suit of clothes purchased in this country $11 of it was a tax. He also enumerated a hundred other articles that the poor man used on which there was a big take-out to the manufacturer. Mr. Johnson shows by his knowledge of the unjust legislation that has been going on in a Republican Congress that he has been a hard student, and a close observer of public matters, since he has been in Congress. His re-election in this district is already assured, and ought to be, for there are few men in Congress who have done more in the interest of the people than Mr. Johnson. He also took occasion to denounce some of the falsehoods being circulated against him by certain factions in the State who are working against him by his prospective race for Governor two years from now. Whatever may be said of him by those who are jealous of the position he has reached in the estimation of his constituents in public affairs, he will from now on be in the lead of all of his competitors in his race for Governor of the State.

Judge W. E. Settle, the Democratic candidate for re-election to the Court of Appeals from this district, spoke at Oelze's Hall Monday night. The Judge gave us an account of his work as a member of that court since his election eight years ago. He wants to be returned, and no doubt will be, because his record of the work he has done since he has been a member of that court entitles him to an endorsement by the people. The Judge is an able jurist, a clean, conscientious man, and the people will make no mistake in electing him to this important place at the coming November election.

The L. & N. railroad is doing a big lot of work on their line from Henderson to Nashville. They will spend this year $6,000,000 in reducing grades and straightening curves. It is estimated that they will shorten the line 22 miles, and increase their tonnage 80 per cent. It's wonderful to see how they are moving things.

If the voters of Breckenridge want to hear some clean-cut, live, up-to-date truths as to the workings of the Republicans in Congress, they should be on hand to hear the Hon. Ben Johnson at Hardinsburg the first day of Circuit Court. He has a message worth listening to.

Theodore Roosevelt was defeated in the first round at the Saratoga Convention last Monday. The "Old Guard Republicans" seem to have things going their way. Mr. Roosevelt says he will win however when the fight comes before the convention.

Gov. Harrison, who is the Democratic nominee for Governor of Ohio, is waging a fierce campaign against the enemy in that State. He is also freely spoken of as the man to head the Democratic ticket for President in 1912.

The Republican State Convention will be called together this week at Saratoga, N. Y. There is a big fight on among many Republicans to down Mr. Roosevelt for Chairman, but the ex-President is still in the lead.

Belmont College is a lovely and inviting place. And we are proud that Cloverport has two girls there who are going to make their mark and be a credit to themselves, their families and their home town.

Work on the bridge is progressing nicely. The contractors are doing their best, carrying their work right along and not interfering with public travel, all of which is appreciated by those who have to cross the bridge.

Look at your label and see how it reads, then act. Quick action in subscription renewals is what pleases us.

The Nashville Fair looks like a County Fair when compared to our own State Fair.

Something For Nothing Club

(From Manufacturers Record)
 Mr. Samuel H. Woods, an active business man of Albemarle county, Virginia, and a grower of the celebrated Albemarle Pippins, an apple of international fame, in his letter to the Manufacturers Record two weeks ago, describing the development of the apple industry in his section by reason of the attention now given to the spraying of the trees, said:

"We Virginians do unto things until we have to. We call it 'conservation.' It would meet the case perhaps better if we called it 'pure laziness.'"

No doubt Mr. Woods is quite correct as to very many people in the South, for the lazy ones can be found in that section as well as elsewhere. Nature has been so prodigal in the blessings to the South, it has made it so easy for people to make a living there that it must be charged with some of the responsibility for the development of laziness. And nature's prodigality may also be charged with having been responsible for the organization of what is known in parts of the South as the S. P. N. Club, otherwise the "Something for Nothing" Club. This club has a very large membership throughout the world. Many of its members prefer to "succeed" with "conservation," whereas Mr. Woods calls it "pure laziness."

A JUDGE ON TOBACCO BEFORE CHURCH CLUB

At Louisville Justice O'Rear Makes Striking Talk On Burley Pool.

Justice E. C. O'Rear of the Kentucky court of appeals took "The Tobacco Situation" as the subject for a striking address before the Men's Club of the Crescent Hill Presbyterian church in Louisville, this morning. "If the farmer is not prosperous, there is not a town in Kentucky except Louisville that could stay on the map longer than it would take the railroads to move the citizens away."

Kentucky's Rich Monopoly. "Kentucky needs more money," said Judge O'Rear, "and people are not going to give it to us. We have been inviting foreign capital ever since I have been big enough to read the newspapers, but it either has not received the invitation or has been busy elsewhere. Kentucky produces 75 per cent of the burley tobacco of the world, and more tobacco of all kinds than any equal territory. Tobacco grows elsewhere in no more Kentucky tobacco than blue grass in Kentucky bluegrass when grown in Missouri. Horses can be raised wherever a man can, but there is no thoroughbred like the one bred in old Kentucky. So there is something in this domain, chosen by our forefathers for a home, when they had the whole west to choose from, that is conducive to the production of tobacco. Practically we have a monopoly of its production."

Efficacy of Organization. "There is nothing in that muddy stream called the Ohio river that makes it natural for people living north of it to be more successful. And there is no reason why Indiana and Illinois and Ohio should be richer every year while Kentucky barely holds her own, unless it is because they are given a protection that Kentucky is not."

Judge O'Rear declared that he felt it was permissible for any man interested in establishing Kentucky where she was 50 years ago among her sister states to concern himself with the great movement of organization which has been the impetus to the future, the present, the courts and the constitution, and is similar to organizations which were approved by the predecessor of the present president of the United States.

A Cup of Sugar. "A large china cup with a handle was shored against the counter and a child's voice said, 'Ma wants a cupful of sugar.' The grocer filled the cup, weighed the sugar, poured it back into the cup and said, 'Two cents.' To a customer who expressed surprise at his willingness to sell groceries in such small quantities he said: 'I have to in this neighborhood. Most of these people live from week to week, which means that they buy things by measure instead of weight. I reckoned by the cupful, the spoonful or the pailful, they have to buy so much of anything they need. In order to satisfy both customers and the inspector of weights and measures we measure first to suit the trade, then the weight afterward.'—New York Sun.

MEMORIES OF MARK TWAIN.

Two Letters the Humorist Wrote to Henry Waterson. "Mark Twain: An Infinite Memory." Is the title of Henry Waterson's article about his cousin as it appears in the American Magazine. Mr. Waterson recalls the following incident as being typical of Mark Twain's whimsical point of view.

His mind turned over to the death of a friend, he was lying with his family at 102 Belmont street, between 102 and 103 West street. Between 102 and 103 was the parolish workhouse, quite a long and imposing building, one ending upon another in front of another. I found a letter he had written on the sliding room table and left with his card. He spoke of the clock he received upon that day that next to 102—presumably 103—was the workhouse. He had loved me, but always feared that I would end by disgracing the family—being hanged, or something—but the workhouse that was beyond him: he had not thought it would come to that. And so on through pondering of horsey, he relied on ascertaining the truth and learning his mistake, his regret at not finding me at home, closing with a dinner invitation. Once at Geneva, Switzerland, I received a long, overwinding letter, full of buoyant ideas, written from London. Two or three hours later came a telegram: "Turn left, then it is from your nursery. Susie is dead."

Susie was Mrs. Clemens.

INDIANS' PRIDE.

Native Reserve and Conservation Keep Them Apart From Whites.

Even among the Five Civilized Tribes there still remains many communities wholly full blood. These people do drift together, following their own ideas of life, speaking their own language and retiring before the whites with the same strange reserve and pride that characterized them in their wild state. Although claiming the name of several Christian denominations and following certain beliefs with devotion, their ways of thinking, their dislike of innovation and their aversion to work have made them withdraw to the mountain districts. Whether this so-called reserve comes from pride or a distrust of the white man or timidity or merely a stubborn conservatism, it produces the same result, the backward and nonprogressive Indian.

There is, too, a certain mystic quality that holds the Indian aloof, says the Southern Workman—a quality that we do not understand and which, which there is little sympathy in our every-day life. He is so much of a philosopher that he looks upon our strenuous life with some contempt, dismissing our efforts for personal comfort and material advancement with the remark that "the white man is bent trouble to himself." While people call him lazy because he does not care to exert himself for those things which seem important to whites, yet to some religious expression his application is persistent and the "patience of an Indian" has passed into a proverb.

WORKED LIKE A CHARM.

She Joined a Card Club In Order to Forget Her Work.

An Atchison woman who found the monotony of day-after-day cooking and laundry work proving too much for sanity was urged to join a card club. "It will take your mind off your work," she was told, and so she joined. In order to attend she had to get up that morning an hour earlier to get her work done; a neighbor girl was to stay with the baby, and when, flustered, nervous and tired, she left the house fifteen minutes late she was followed by the screams of her three children, because they couldn't be taken along. But she had her mind taken off her work at the card party. Of that there is no doubt, for when she made a mistake her partner, a perfect lady, walked right over and then poked her up and shook her, and then checked her for her fifteen minutes' delay. She was so tired and the little wife she had under her hair felt, and she made another mistake with another partner, and this woman, also a perfect lady, should have been ashamed to talk to a dog. It was more that she could endure, and, weeping like a sprinkling cart, she got up and went home.

"It did even more than I promised," she told her husband. "Nothing has ever happened to me in my life except to see my mind off my work. Why, there were times when I even forgot I had you and all the children."—Atchison Globe.

Athletics and the Unfit.

Those who are unfit should not indulge in athletic games is a warning by Dr. Woods Hutchinson.

A boy, for instance, is a little weak after a mild attack of infectious fever, pneumonia, influenza or tonsillitis, and his body is weakened and more violently than it should on exertion. But the teen wants him and he wants a record, or both, and away he goes into training.

"Suddenly one day the heart can no longer drive on its overload of blood, and down goes the runner or swimmer in an attack of heart failure," and athletics get all the discredit.

The same danger lies with there is no training, the sport being purely indulgent. It is the case where the athlete convalescent persists in taking part in a long anticipated game. Only that phase of common sense which is unfounded in common prejudice is necessary to avoid such perils.

TURKISH WOMEN.

They Are Curiously Fastidious in Some of Their Ways.

The habits of the Turkish women of Constantinople are wonderfully fastidious. For instance, when they wash their hands at a table from which water runs into a marble basin the fair ones will let the water run under a servant's foot, or, if no servant is at hand, they will let it run under their own feet. They cannot open or shut a door, as the handle would be unclean.

One of these fastidious women was not long ago talking to a small niece who had just received a present of a doll from Paris. By and by the child laid the doll in the lady's lap. She was horrified and ordered the child to take it away. As the little girl would not move it and no servant was near, the lady would be defiled by touching a doll that had been brought from abroad, the only resource left her was to jump up and let the doll fall. It broke in pieces.

Another Turkish woman would not open a letter coming by post, but request the servant to break the seal and to hold the envelope near her head so that the wind should not blow the contents to the ground. It was immediately destroyed or given away, so that she might not regret it.—Exchange.

AMERICAN MANHOOD.

An English View of the Common People in This Country.

In all I spent four months traveling and lecturing in the eastern cities of the United States and met many men of varied classes, in all wider degrees of the race I had never foreseen such wealth, such freedom, such equality. America is the land of the common people, as England is the land of the classes. If I were a young workingman I would go to the States as soon as I could earn a passage, because once on her soil I should come to be a laborer and become a man, which is a very different thing. Better than the boundless wealth of America, better than any material benefit she can bestow, is this sense of method and equality that is as all pervading as the air. Worse than the barren floor of our peasant's hovel, still found in England's southern counties, and the starvation wages on which he lives is the slavish spirit that drugs the cap from his head before the square or crowds him into the ditch as the carriage passes by. He is no more a man and no laborer, one step above the self—Joseph Burt of London in Leslie's.

Trapping Muskrats.

"Numbers of mechanical traps to catch muskrats have been invented and tried, but none gives more satisfaction than the old floating barrel trap that has been in use for many years. Both ends are left closed, and a line about eight by twelve inches is stretched in the side. A string is nailed across each end, the cleats projecting six or eight inches beyond the barrel, and upon the cleats are the sails, one on each side of the barrel and several inches long. Water then is placed in the barrel so that it will float with the board platform about on a level with the surface of the water or stream. About one-third of the barrel remains above water. Apples, carrots and other delicacies that the muskrat likes are placed in the barrel, and in their attempt to get the bait the animals fall into the barrel and are unable to get out.—Exchange.

A WARNING TO "INDEPENDENTS."

(Cynthia's Log Cabin.) The horses are made up and the intelligent farmer can not fail to realize that he is in the most serious position he has ever occupied. He can root his crop and thereby help insure a good market for years to come, or he can sell out to the trust and help kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

There are thousands of farmers who think they can sell out and not affect the general result—farmers who are willing to take the chances on some one else keeping up the market.

It remains to be seen whether the majority of farmers will do their duty to themselves and their neighbors, or will hold out and let the pool go to the bottom.

We have no words of abuse for the Independent, and we believe we have never applied the word "dumper" to the outsiders. But we want to warn these Independents that they are doing all in their power to ruin the market, and that they are doing it and that they will succeed in doing it unless they quickly join the pool in large numbers!

Each Independent can do more than any old pooler because every time an Independent joins he is followed by four or five old poolers who have been "talking on the Independents." We want to urge the Independents to quickly join their neighbors and insure the success of the pool. A few more weeks and it may be everlasting too late!

CHILDREN NEED VERY BEST ROADS

Bad Highways Prevent Regular Attendance at School.

SOCIAL GATHERINGS A TASK.

National Grange is Urged to Work for Better Highways as a Help to Youngsters and Greater Interest in Church and Civic Improvement.

One of the advantages that good roads are to a community that is often lost sight of is the prevention of child-attendance at school regularly, thus furthering the education of every child that his or her child shall be well educated, and another is the prevention of social intercourse, which is only fully developed when the "going" is easy over well cared for highways.

In an article written for the national grange by Logan Walker Page he says: "The advantages of good roads extend to every citizen, whether he lives in city or country, and to every enterprise, whether it be agricultural, manufacturing or mining. All are more or less dependent on the common highways as an avenue of the commercial transportation, and in proportion as these highways are improved so as to facilitate transportation are they benefited thereby. These benefits have been carefully computed and estimated in dollars and cents, and so enormous have they been thus demonstrated to be that they present a convincing argument to any thinking man of the importance and necessity for road improvement.

That there are other elements of advantage which more urgently recommend the improvement of our roads, advantages which deserve far more serious consideration than any financial advantages which we may gain and which cannot be measured according to any monetary standard, but must be looked for in the elevation of our citizenship and the moral and intellectual advancement of our people.

"Most of our cities and towns have good streets and driveways, which facilitate business and recreation. The people live close together, and social and friendly intercourse is easy. The schools and churches are within easy reach of all. So our urban population has ample facilities for business, recreation, for social intercourse and for attendance upon church and school.

"It is different, however, with the two-thirds of our people who are engaged in agricultural pursuits and live away from the centers of business and population. They have not the paved

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust test, ment, or setting, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to urinate, and the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scaling pain in passing it, or loss of following use of liquor, wine or other beverages, or unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a reliable kidney remedy, Swamp-Root has the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

streets and good roads of the cities and towns. They live apart from each other and have no roads such as afford easy and convenient means of transportation, business, of social intercourse and regular attendance upon church and school. To them will flow the maximum of benefits from improved roads. Improved roads will bring them in closer touch with the centers of progress. It will give them enlarged vision and assist them to adopt new methods which are so necessary for them to keep pace with the march of progress along other lines, and as they advance so will our civilization.

"Good roads would revolutionize our country schools. Contrast the lot of the country child on his way to school in winter with that of the city child with only a few blocks of paved streets to walk. The country child, with his wet and over-shoulders and lunch basket in hand, must leave the cheerful freedom of home from half an hour to an hour before school opens in order to be there on time. The roads are wet and muddy many months of the year. The country is open and the cold winds are unmerciful in their attacks upon him. So that by the time he reaches the schoolhouse, which is often unhealthfully ventilated and poorly heated, his feet are so cold and his body so chilled that he is unfit for study or recreation most of the day, and the exposure and chilling of the body invite pneumonia and other diseases.

These conditions cause broken and irregular attendance. They create an aversion in the child for the school-room instead of a pride in punctual attendance and studious advancement. Not only this, but a mother hates to see her child trot off to school two or three miles away in cold, bad weather. She fears that the injurious effects upon the body from the exposure will do greater harm than the beneficial effects upon the mind will do good. She realizes that a vigorous mind can only dwell in a healthy body and that it would be a misdirected exercise of maternal care to force her children to school under conditions of exposure which endanger their bodily health.

"Improved roads would be a great factor in reducing the percentage of illiteracy which exists throughout the country. Our present illiteracy cannot be reduced to any appreciable extent except by marshaling all of the children, both city and country, into the schoolrooms. This can only be accomplished by a system of compulsory education. Some of our states have already passed compulsory education laws, and in many others the sentiment in favor of such laws is so pronounced as to indicate their early enactment. These laws prove a blessing upon wisely planned and properly administered. There are no objections to their efficient administration in our cities. Everybody is in the close proximity to the schoolhouses and can easily reach them with but little exposure in the worst weather. But in the rural districts the opposite is true. If all of the roads were in good condition so as to remain high and dry it would be possible to successfully enforce such a law even in the rural districts, but with the present condition of most of the roads it is impracticable. And the states in their efforts to thus bestow a blessing upon their children would be attempting an unkind benefaction for which they would pay by a resultant loss in the physique and mental vigor of our future generations.

Church attendance would also be stimulated by road improvement. When one has a nice smooth road to travel over he doesn't mind driving three or four miles to church. Small congregations would thus be augmented. The people would become interested in and take a pride in their churches. Larger and more comfortable churches would be built, and both children and grown people would attend church more regularly than they do now with our bad roads and distant and uncomfortable churches, for church-going is not only beneficial from the religious standpoint, but it is an attractive social feature connected with which is a benefit and a blessing to the people.

"The schools and churches of a community are its greatest moral and educational forces. Next to their proper standards rural mail delivery, which brings the people of the rural districts in daily touch with the cities and business world. It places in their hands the daily papers, magazines and other of the current literature of the country, so that they may be as well informed as to what is transpiring in the political, literary and commercial world as their brothers in the city. The beneficial effects of this service upon the happiness and home comforts of our rural population are immeasurable, and nothing contributes to its efficiency and regularity more than improved roads."

The Parrots of Mexico. What the wild pigeon once was in point of numbers to the United States the parrot of Mexico is now. It is small and its size is to old Mexico. Flights of these birds frequently darken the midday sun in the hot country, and they become so tame around the camps of engineers that the birds are given individual names and soon become regular pets. Whenever the parrot descends the forest and alights on the ground in the open squares of the jungle the natives recognize their actions as sure warning of an impending earthquake. American engineers in Mexico, this belief and assert that serious accidents which might have been averted had realized when the warning of the birds was noted, but unheeded.

RIGHT WAY TO BRUSH TEETH

Painstaking Care During Childhood Preserve Them.

There are harmful as well as beneficial ways of brushing teeth, says the Dentist.

A too vigorous application of the brush crosswise of the teeth may result in forcing the gums away from the necks of the teeth, leaving the roots more or less exposed. The gums require the friction of the brush as well as the teeth, but this friction should be applied in such a way as to force the gum down over the tooth. Instead of pressing it away. To accomplish this the brush should be given a rotary motion, letting the bristles impinge against the upper gums and teeth on the downward trip and against the lower ones on the upward trip. This will also tend to throw the bristles between the teeth and force out any particles of food which may be lodged between them.

If the gums show a tendency to bleed in brushing, the brush should be continued in this way with cold water till the bleeding stops, and by this means the gums will be hardened and become normal. If this does not cure the gums the case should be referred to a dentist to learn if there are not some hard deposits forming under the gums in the way of tartar.

The teeth should be brushed at least twice a day, but particularly at night just before retiring. During the hours of the night, when the fluids of the mouth are quiet, the elements which produce decay have a better opportunity to work than at any other time and if food material or foreign matter is allowed to remain between the teeth all night the teeth are almost certain to decay.

With painstaking care during childhood and ordinary care subsequently the teeth of the average individual may be preserved through life, and this would mean much for the betterment of the race.

GARFIELD

Farmers Union Has Beneficial Meeting Friday--Smallpox Reported Near Rosetta

Mrs. Girtle Bowers, the wife of Rev. A. A. Bowers and her two children, Lucy and St. Clair of Campbell, Mo., who has been visiting friends in and around Garfield, returned home last Thursday and were accompanied as far as Hardinsburg by Miss Ola Gray, Miss Maud Mattingly and Mr. Grover Gregory.

Bro. Bowers is a Cumberland Presbyterian preacher of the very highest type. He moved to Garfield about fourteen years ago and was pastor of the church here for several years, nearly three years ago at that part of Missouri in which he is now making his home in Missouri. While here he did a wonderful work for the Master.

The seed sown by him will be gathered in the sweet by and by.

Sister Bowers gives a glowing account of that part of Missouri in which she and that they love their new home. Campbell is located in the south-eastern part of the state and contains 4,000 inhabitants and has a splendid school. We appreciated their visit very much. Bro. Bowers and family may also rest assured that they have our very best wishes and must come to see us again.

The Farmers Union met at Garfield Sept. 23rd and had a very successful meeting. Quite a number of members from all parts of the county were present. The order is increasing in numbers and that brotherly love, which should fill the hearts of all true Americans prevails among us. The pledging of tobacco has begun and it is expected that every Union man who has tobacco will pledge it and we also extend to the outsider who has tobacco a hearty invitation to pledge with us.

Mr. D. H. Smith, of Garfield, sold to Chas. Dowell a pair of two year old mules. Consideration $125.00.

If the best is not too good for you, Lewisport Best flour is the flour you ought to use.

State Sunday School Convention.

The forty-fifth State Sunday School Convention meets at Winchester, October 6 to 9. It is our earnest desire that Breckenridge county be well represented. Being one of the banner counties, we think it should be. We can think of no greater investment for any school than to send a delegate to this great convention, who is sure to return fired with enthusiasm and filled with inspiration to stir his school to do greater work for the Master. Therefore we ask that each school in the county elect a delegate to go to Winchester and represent them at this convention.

Now will each school please attend to this on next Sunday, and report to the County Secretary the names of each person as may have been elected delegates.

We have in hand a special invitation from the secretary of Clark county urging all the county officers and Sunday School workers to come, meet and enjoy with them this great feast. The program is an unusually good one. We sincerely hope each Superintendent will have his school to elect a delegate who will attend.

T. B. Henderson, Pres. Ora B. Henderson, Secretary of Breckenridge county.

Ashbury Methodist Church Is Honored

The "Home Coming" given by the members of the colored Methodist church was a decided success in both the business and social way. The ministers who attended were: Rev. J. W. Robinson, D. D., District Superintendent of Owensboro, Ind.; Rev. F. P. Freeling, of Georgetown, Rev. C. G. Turner, of Owensboro; Rev. C. W. Powell, of Anchorage. Rev. M. S. Johnson, the pastor, planned the meeting and had several committees among his flock to help him carry out the arrangements.

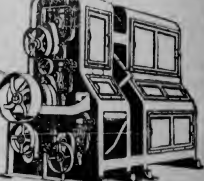

The colored people of Cloverport are on an uplift. They are taking greater interest in their churches and deserve credit for their improved manner of living.

The Ashbury church received the District Banner for giving the largest amount of twenty-seven churches for benevolence purposes in the conference.

Will Speak At C. H. S.

Father Brey will deliver an address to the pupils of the Cloverport Graded High School tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.
